The eye of the little kindergartener had not been trained for nothing. When she heard the grown-ups calling her big sister's new frock "purple" it was more than her color sense could bear. "You may call it purple," she announced impressively, "but God knows it's blue." Ever so little different emphasis would have changed this reverent remark to one of exceeding irreverence.

New Silks & Dress Goods

Although they've only just begun to arrive, there's much here to admire. In both silks and the dress fabrics a wealth of wholly fresh and effective ideas greet you and give fair representation of the coming season favorites. No recent spring's showing ever gave promise of greater diversity in production of beautiful fabrics. You are not expected to buy, but rather to look these commencement days of the season, and you're very welcome; each day is an interesting one.

New Laces.

What a lavish array! All gowns this season should be beautiful, for fashion and lace makers have given all that may be desired to accomplish it. Collars, boleros, jackets, bands, applique pieces, in richest gold and Persian effects, and—well, they'll not do to tell about, see them, the window tomorrow will contain many; this bit of information, however, may have come amiss—a popular favorite of the season is to be he collarless Eton jacket of the tailor gown; less a cloth collar, but one of lace especially brought out for the purpose—they are here, rever collars, sailor collars and round collars, in rich Renaissance, Arabian, Venise, Batiste, Chiffon. Very reasonable prices.

New French Kid Gloves In.

All light shades, blue, old rose, white and pink, with fluffy accordion or tucked fronts, tiny, buttons in pretty decoration, sleeves have the new wrist bands.

Women's New Spring Hosiery

Elegance-daintiness. Two words that express, but cannot convey an idea of the hosiery beauty brought out this season. Rare and pretty embroiderings in bright colors on sombre or perhaps both back-ground and work may be most vivid, for the scarlets are much in evidence; exquisite lace effects of black and white, red, dark blue, light blue, gobelin blue, etc., besides the stripes in great variety, wide, nar-row, vertical and round in scarlet and black, black and white, with no end of other combinations. Fine cottons and lisle thread, 40c to $2.25. A window display of them on Main street side.
